

Global Conversations on the Return of Cultural Heritage

Join Indigenous experts, museum professionals, and human rights specialists from across the globe for a series of conversations regarding repatriation and the return of cultural heritage. One year ago, the University of British Columbia (UBC) hosted an expert seminar to support the work of the United Nations Expert Mechanism on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples' (EMRIP) in drafting a report on the repatriation of ceremonial objects, human remains, and the intangible heritage of Indigenous peoples. EMRIP's report was adopted by the United Nations Human Rights Council October 2020. Based on the report's recommendations, this series will encourage dialogues amongst participants and foster communities of professional practice across the globe.

Registration is required for each session. Content will also be made available through open-source publications and other forms of dissemination after the series is completed.
